Love in the Year of the Ox: This Lunar New Year, Tinder Reveals What's In Store for Every Chinese Zodiac Sign in 2021

Sydney, February 10 2021: After the sh*t show that was 2020, there's nothing like looking to the cosmic powers above to get as much insight into what 2021 holds. Most of us are all over our star signs (shout out to the brutally honest Co-Star for helping) but as the age-old saying goes, two zodiacs are better than one! It's time to give your Chinese Zodiac some attention cause bby we are going to need all the guidance we can get this year.

When it comes to making new connections, the rules of the Universe most definitely apply and there's no better time to seek out pop-astro inspiration for new beginnings than right before the Lunar New Year.

This year, Year of the Ox officially begins from February 12, bringing every Zodiac sign a new year of hope, opportunities and challenges. Tinder has consulted with a renowned numerologist based in Taiwan and Zodiac guides, revealing how each sign will fare in luck and love in the year of the Ox as well as all the tips and tricks to find the perfect match.

For those not in the know, in the Chinese zodiac system, each year is represented by one of 12 animals - including a mythical dragon, with 12 years forming a full cycle. And on the 13th year, the cycle starts all over again.

From Rat to Pig, check out all the tips and tricks to find the perfect match below (supporting imageryhere):
