Take the Rein(deer):

We encourage daters to consider using their own transportation to first dates, such as a personal vehicle or rideshare (or sled).

There's no place like home for the holidays:

We suggest that daters be vague and avoid providing personal details, such as their home or places they frequent, to their matches.

Some people are worth melting for:

Don't be in a rush to provide your phone number until you feel comfortable and we encourage everyone to take their time when moving conversations off the app.

Sleigh it loud and proud:

Be yourself! Don't feel pressured to say yes to something that you don't feel 100% comfortable with.

Keep your eggnog close and your friends closer:

Make sure to keep your drinks close and only accept a drink from someone you know and trust. Daters should meet in public places and share their plans with family and friends.

Maybe hot chocolate wants to be called beautiful chocolate just once:

Everyone has different likes and dislikes, so active communication is important when you are getting to know someone and it's important to respect each other's boundaries.

Report Scrooges back to the app:

We encourage everyone to report all suspicious and offensive behaviour on the app. Our teams will review the report and take the necessary action to remove any inappropriate information.
